Dear Mr. Melzer:

Re: Document Request re. Newmont Mining Corporation ("Newmont")

We write in response to your correspondence to Deloitte LLP ("Deloitte Canada") dated October 2, 2018 regarding a request for information related to our client, Newmont Mining Corporation ("Newmont" or the "Company").

We understand that your client, AngloGold Ashanti North America, Inc. ("AngloGold") is in the middle of a legal proceeding against Newmont commenced in the State of New York, USA. As you are aware, Deloitte Canada is a Canadian entity and not subject to the US jurisdiction. Further, as a professional accounting firm and professional service provider for the Company, Deloitte Canada is accountable to and takes instructions from the Company alone. As such, due to our professional obligation to protect our client's confidentiality, we cannot provide you or your client with any documents or information relating to the Company without express written consent from Newmont. As you confirmed in your letter, to the extent your client wishes to seek production of any documents from Deloitte Canada, they will need to proceed through appropriate judicial process by way of letters rogatory process.

Accordingly, at this time, we will not be disclosing any information requested in your letter. As indicated, it is our professional obligation to confirm with and obtain written consent and authorization from our client before agreeing to disclose any information relating to our client to a third party. I suggest that you direct any future requests for information to the Company or their counsel directly.

Should you have any further questions relating to this letter, please contact me at the number listed above.

Yours truly,
